

AWS Project in Support of Relief Aid for Haiti
Project date: January 15-31, 2010

Advanced Warning Systems, Inc. (AWS) is a disease management company that provides healthcare solutions to doctors and patients battling multi-chronic illnesses.

The company provides patients and physicians multiple solutions that are personalized to the user. As a systems and solutions integrator, AWS provides just about everything you need to better monitor, record, and store health data.

The four primary categories of patient illnesses that AWS has out of the box solutions for are:

- Diabetes
- Hypertension
- COPD
- CHF

The company also offers a medication management device useful for patients who need to take and keep track of multiple prescribed medications.

Whether you are the patient user, a concerned family member of the patient or the prescribing physician, AWS has something for you.

Project Objective:

AWS would like to support the relief efforts in Haiti by providing monetary contributions to the U.S. fund.

For the rest of January 2010 a percentage of each product/package purchase will result in a monetary donation by AWS to the U.S. relief effort in Haiti.

We look forward to working with you to help improve and monitor your health, and we thank you for helping us support the relief efforts in Haiti.
